make it modern innovative spaces for modern lifestyles

“In an era of mass produced furniture that lacks spirit and attention to detail, I try to find beautiful pieces of wood in raw form and bring them to life.”

Inspired by the likes of design institutions Droog, Morgan is philosophical about design and wants to help educate the masses by exposing them to inventive ways of communicating design's impact in their everyday lives. “In an era of mass produced furniture that lacks spirit and attention to detail, I try to find beautiful pieces of wood in raw form and bring them to life.”

Using rare, exotic, and recycled woods in all of his pieces, Morgan takes inspiration from the beauty of his medium and exposes the small imperfections that exhibit a quality piece of handmade furniture. “I like to explore organic shapes found in nature and create pieces that blur the lines between form and function.”

Not chasing trends, instead Morgan challenges society's conventions and perceptions of what is considered excellent contemporary design. In creating custom, one of a kind pieces for his clients, Morgan pushes the boundaries through innovative joinery and simple forms that once pieced together, create multiple contexts leaving the viewer different options for placement in a space.

Pieces

simplicity=sustainability

Our pieces are sustainable and supportive of the environment incorporating reclaimed, “wasted” wood, and cut-offs highlighting the wood’s imperfections and character.

The designs are meant to save space for simpler living and also multi-functional so that people can reuse over time, instead of buying more. Our design is simple. Simple in theory and function. Sustainability is about simplicity in one’s lifestyle.
